

Dear Paul,

2/22/83

I'd I'd known when I read yours of the 15th this a.m. that RD wants the Moorman picture, I'd have been more prepared with suggestions when Henry's researcher phoned me later. I've made a few more suggestions to Henry, by letter, and I suggested to Cissi that she see if UPI still has the negative they made when they got the rights to her pix. I've also asked Jim to ask the FBI to provide me with copies, in advance of decision on which they'll make for me.

I'm not really glad that you've joined the imperfect memory club, but on Joan Hitchcock, I took your picture with her and I think Jim Schmitt, outside her then home, was it on Broadway?

On Moorman, do you recall if the Sweatt gang copied her pix? I've suggested to Henry that they ask the sheriff and his widow.

On which Dallas pix I should want, I don't think I intended to ask you which were of interest to you personally. I intended your recommendations on which I'd ask for. Most also will not interest me now, but some are important historically.

How could the chopper that allegedly took off as A1AF1 was landing have been involved in any hankypanky? That had to be after AF1 landed, didn't it?

While I have no way of knowing exactly how much snow fell right here, the deepest near here was 3 feet in one day. Our lane acted as a wind tunnel and much of it blew. However, thanks to a good snowblower and a strong highschool boy who used it and then dug after it broke a belt, we never had it bad or rough and were never really snowed in even tho I didn't leave for two days. We've had a fine thaw, slow, which allows much of the moisture to get into the watertable, but we still have snow left and as of this a.m., there are still some cars not yet dug out.

Despite this record-breaker, we're having a relatively mild winter, which is making a problem for me. I've ordered next year's wood, six cord, and it can't be delivered until my neighbor's field is frozen hard enough so that a truck carrying two cords at a time won't make tracks that will give him a problem when he mows. The D.C. forecast for today was high of 60, and I imagine it is about 55 here right now.

Thanks and best to you all,
